PRESS RELEASE

OSCo on the EuroBLECH 2008:

New Metal Software within SAP® and OSCo Day

Mannheim (Germany), 25 August 2008 – The SAP® partner company OSCo Olbricht, Seehaus & Co. Consulting GmbH presents on the EuroBLECH 2008 in hall 16, booth B14 a new software within SAP® for metal processing and finishing companies. The solution package optimizes and enhances especially the material flow and manufacturing processes for a complete MES (Manufacturing Execution System). At „OSCo Day“ on the fair (Thursday, 23 October 2008 in CC, room 13/14) customers report on their experience with the solution and further experts on market developments.

OSCo has completely and modification-free integrated the solution within the SAP® system. It works with practice-proven business processes and sets of rules along with prepared data structures – from the coil to the finished product. The software represents continuously in a single software environment comprehensive industry-typical processes, but including quality management, derivations of standards and ratings along with MES. This encompasses amongst others material flow across sites, production data collection and analysis, and an optimized production fine planning of machines, resources, and assemblies until the shipping. A seamless part of this are a complete product history, an extensive reporting, and rule-based data structures to the finance and accounting system and controlling.

The solution is suited for all manufacturing and treatment steps, the further processing into profiles, tubes or assemblies along with the trade. It can be implemented quickly and delivers normally after short time a high return on investment (ROI). At „OSCo Day“ customers and experts especially report on the advantages which result from one software environment (www.osco.de).
